Homework Ideas – L6

English

This term we are looking at non-fiction and poetry. It would be great if you could read lots of different types of books together so we can discuss them in school. The main book we will be focusing on is 'Stig of the Dump'. Videos of this can be found on Youtube and I have no problems with the students getting ahead of the book we are reading. After half term we're looking at different types of poetry so any books at home you have would be a great start.

Other Ideas

- ICT is all about safety. Talk about what things you do on the internet at home.
- Talk about what you have done at school that day
- In Geography we are learning all about the areas we live in! Learning our addresses and where it is.
- For art have a go at drawing something in your favourite artists style.
- Listen to some different types of folk music and then tell us what you think about it.

Maths

This term in maths we will looking at number and money.

We hope that at home and out and about you'll do plenty of counting, adding (at the shops) and measuring (during your cooking).

Perhaps you could also measure all the different members of your family (including pets) and see who is the tallest and the shortest?
